Verb to Be

The verb to be is usually used to describe people or things, to talk about age, name, profession, etc. It is (is - am - are), which means to be, and it is permissible not to translate it if the meaning is complete in Arabic.

We use the universal verb is with third person singular nouns or their corresponding pronouns, i.e. (he - she - it).

As for am, we use it with the pronoun I only - first person singular.

Regarding the verb are, we use it with the plural or with its corresponding pronouns, i.e. (you – we – they).
