

Writing First year

Lecture 10

Prepared by: Prof. Dr. Haider Bairmani

Narrative Paragraph

A narrative paragraph tells a story or recounts a sequence of events, typically in chronological order. It aims to engage the reader by conveying a series of events or experiences in a vivid and descriptive manner. Here's how you can structure a narrative paragraph:

1. Introduction: Begin by introducing the main idea or setting the scene for the narrative. This could include providing background information, establishing the time and place, or introducing the characters involved in the story.
2. Body: In the body of the paragraph, describe the sequence of events that make up the narrative. Use descriptive language to paint a vivid picture for the reader and evoke sensory details such as sight, sound, smell, taste, and touch. Focus on portraying the actions, interactions, and emotions of the characters involved in the story.
3. Conflict or Climax: Build tension and suspense by introducing a conflict or a turning point in the narrative. This could be a problem, obstacle, or challenge that the characters must overcome, or a moment of realization or revelation that changes the course of events.
4. Resolution: Conclude the narrative paragraph by resolving the conflict or bringing the story to a satisfying conclusion. Tie up any loose ends and provide closure for the reader. Reflect on the significance of the events that unfolded and the impact they had on the characters or the overall narrative.

5. Transition: If the narrative paragraph is part of a larger piece of writing, use a transitional sentence or phrase to connect it to the next paragraph or section. This helps maintain the flow of the narrative and keeps the reader engaged in the story.

Here's an example of a narrative paragraph:

Example:

As the sun dipped below the horizon, casting a golden hue over the rugged landscape, Sarah and Mark stood at the edge of the cliff, their hearts pounding with anticipation. They had been planning this moment for months, dreaming of the exhilarating plunge into the crystal-clear waters below. With a shared glance and a silent nod, they clasped hands and leaped into the unknown. The rush of wind whipped through their hair as they plummeted towards the water, adrenaline coursing through their veins. For a fleeting moment, time stood still, suspended in mid-air. Then, with a mighty splash, they plunged into the cool embrace of the ocean, laughter bubbling up from deep within their souls. In that moment, as they surfaced, gasping for breath and grinning from ear to ear, they knew that they had conquered their fears and embraced the thrill of the unknown.

This narrative paragraph captures a moment of excitement and adventure, immersing the reader in the experience of the characters as they take a leap of faith and dive into the ocean below. It incorporates descriptive language to evoke the sensory details of the scene and convey the emotions of the characters involved.